Alabaster box $1.00 on the wrong horse at Sparrow's. Wales bet heavily on the Derby, and lost $20,000 and odd of pocket money.

George Gomers, the celebrated Notting-hamshire cricketer, died at Nottingham, June 25, from injuries received in a match at Lord's Ground, a few days previous. He was struck on the head by a ball, and the blow proved fatal in the twenty-fifth hour after the accident. The London Times says: "A promising career was thus cut short, and the cricket field has lost one of its most brilliant ornaments." It is suggested that the home should be retained by Mr. Dickens' family for a term, to be named, at a rental of £50 per annum, and that the remainder of the purchase money will merge in the trust. The trustees will meet this afternoon, at his late residence, to consider the matter. Mr. Dickens' will, which was executed in 1858, and duly proved, bequeaths to his wife, for life, the interest of £8,000, and to his children £80,000 in addition to what he has already settled upon them. Dickens' favorite daughter, Mamie, is to be left £8,000 in addition to her share of the £80,000. Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

THE GAMES GOTE AT ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, July 3.—Over 3,000 people were in attendance at the base ball park, this afternoon, on the game between the Empires, of St. Louis, Commodore, of Cincinnati, and the Garden Citys, of Chicago. The game was called just at 1 p. m. H. Nawton, of the Unions, of St. Louis, officiated as umpire, and a very pretty umpire he made, too, in the little dashing way he had of doing things. The Garden Citys had the first innings, and Hallinan, the first man to the bat, struck out. Addy followed suit, and so did Wood. Then Thompson, Hall, and Pratt all made first base, but Pratt was put out at it by Mallone, Hall on a fly to Mallone, and Thompson on a foul fly to Nawton, the second inning being one of the White Stockings' innings. Mallone, Nawton, and Hall went towards the close of this inning Goodwin went to bat, and struck out. Mack followed suit, and Wilson struck out also. Mack stood off a little from the bat, and Wilson was told to stand closer. Wilson struck at the first ball pitched to him, and missed it. Then he struck at the next, and knocked a foul fly to Mallone, which he failed to catch. Wilson struck at the next ball pitched to him, and knocked a foul fly to Mallone, Hall on a fly to Mallone, Hall on a fly to Mallone, Hall on a
